CONVICTS DIE LIKE RATS, IN ALABAMA MINE AT LITTLETON

ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY
STATE CONVICTS THOUGHT TO HAVE PERISHED THIS MORNING.

BUT TWENTY MADE ESCAPE

Meagre Details of Second Mine Horror
In Two Days—Still Working at Throop Mine in Pennsylv-

vania.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—It is thought that one hundred and seventy of the state convicts employed in the Throop coal mine at Littleton, thirty miles from this city, have met their death in an explosion which has wrecked the mine.

While the details are lacking it is known that one hundred ninety of the convicts leased to the mine-owners went to work this morning and that but twenty have thus far reached the surface. This would leave the rest in the shaft below.

The cause of the explosion is not known but the shaft rapidly filled with gas and it is thought that unless the men are in some air chambers they are all dead.

Littleton is thirty miles from this city and medical aid is being rushed to the scene of the disaster as fast as possible. Little hope is entertained that any of the men below the surface are alive.

Telephone communication with the mines was secured this afternoon and the report says the explosion was caused by a gas pocket and occurred at six o'clock.

There were 135 men in the mine, including 125 convicts and ten free laborers. Of the convicts 20 were whites and 15 negroes.

The explosion occurred in Entry No. 4 and about 20 men escaped. The bodies of two negroes have been recovered and it is thought the remaining number are dead.

The mine is owned by the Pratt Consolidated Mine company with offices in this city.

Seventy Bodies.—Seventy bodies have been recovered from the Throop mine at Littleton where yesterday's fearful disaster occurred. The work of rescue still continues, there being no hope that any in the mine are still alive.

Identify Bodies.—Of the seventy bodies thus far brought to the surface forty-five have been identified, among them that of Joseph Evans, foreman of the government rescue crew, who died a hero in the rescue work.

Helmet Not Tight.—Evans and his assistants went into the mine yesterday afternoon and their helmets, supposed to be airtight, did not work properly and all died from the deadly fumes of the "fire damp."

Police Active.—Both the police and state constabulary are most active and have been forced to take strenuous measures to restrain the grief-stricken women about the shaft.

But Seventy Four.—The officials of the Pratt Consolidated Company this afternoon announced the total deaths from the colliery fire was seventy four.

Seaman, one of the recent appointees to the board of university regents, Governor McGovern this morning gave out the following brief statement:

NO MAY JURY TERM IN CIRCUIT COURT

Done Away With by Order of Judge
Grimm—Matters Before Court
This Morning.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

According to an order of Judge Grimm, who was at the court house this morning, there will be no May jury term in the circuit court. The judge will return to this city on the nineteenth of this month, at which time the February jury term will commence, it having been postponed on account of the illness of Francis Grant, court reporter. In the order the judge stated that the action was taken in view of the business that was to come up and upon the advice of the members of the bar.

Several minor matters were taken up this morning in the circuit court. The case of George Palmer against Carol L. Smith, an action brought for damages sustained by a gun shot fired by the defendant on the occasion of his chivalry in the town of Milton some time last fall, exceptions were filed following the appealing of the case to the supreme court.

The wind-up of the case of E. T. Hounsham and A. H. Lindquist against the city of Janesville took place this morning. In this suit it will be remembered that the plaintiffs sued the city on an alleged breach of contract in the case of some sewer construction and the case went through the circuit court and was appealed to the supreme court, where a judgment was rendered in favor of the city. Today the costs of the action in the circuit court were filed against the city for the part of the action in that court which went against them. They amounted to $76.27.

Two actions, W. S. Agnew against Wisconsin Colonization company, John McCabe against William Wallish and others were brought up this morning. The former was an action to force the payment of taxes on land purchased by the plaintiff according to an alleged agreement.

HELD UP SHIPMENTS OF ENGLISH CATTLE

Contagious Disease Among Animals
In England Has Interfered With Importation to this Country.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Fond du Lac, Wis., April 8.—It is stated here that a contagious disease that has broken out among cattle in England, will interfere greatly with shipments of cattle into this country.

C. L. Hill, a Rosendale, president of the Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture, brings the report from England, having just returned from the Isle of Guernsey, where he purchased 87 head of pure bred cattle. Twenty head of these cattle were for ex-Governor Hoard, of St. Addison, and 67 are to be used by Mr. Hill. It is necessary under all conditions, to hold cattle thirty days. This quarantine will undoubtedly be extended, because of the contagion. It is probable that the herd will be shipped from Guernsey on April 8th, and will arrive at New York about 15 days from that time.

Work on the proposed addition to the Hotel London owned by Fred R. Jones, on North Third street, has been delayed through an apparent conflict in the abstracts of title to the property on which Mr. Jones intended to put up the building and the American Hotel, purchased by John W. Peters from the Gordon estate. The question arises principally over the width of an alley at the rear of the London hotel. No action has been taken in the matter as yet and no legal contest of a settlement will probably be effected the first part of next week, when a detailed abstract drawn up for the Gordon estate will have been completed by C. J. Hendricks. Attorney Charles Pierce is representing Mr. Peters, who is out of the city on business.

TUBERCULIN LAW IS CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Feeling is Strong in Some Parts of State for Repeal of Law Necessitating Testing of Cattle.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 8.—Sentiment for and against the compulsory testing of cattle for tuberculosis before they may be sold, which has been manifested in the legislature since the session began, is gradually crystallizing into a feeling that the system should be "given one more chance." Nearly 300 petitions have been received, most of them praying for the repeal of the present compulsory test law, and a few for its modification. Most of these have come from the southwestern part of the state where the cheese factories abound, and where there are few municipalities which will permit the sale of milk from tested cows only. It is likely that the matter will culminate in the passage of a bill withdrawing the application of the law for several months or perhaps a year.

Lack of tuberculosis and the mistakes of inexperienced testers have been the principal causes for complaint, and both seem possible of remedy. With regard to the shortage of serum, which is purchased in the east, the agricultural school of the state university is getting ready to broach a plan for the manufacture of the stuff at the college, in a state plant. This probably would require a separate appropriation from the legislature, which would not be difficult to secure. Just now the livestock sanitary board is something like 100,000 down behind its orders, with no other prospect of catching up except by the inauguration of a state laboratory for that purpose. The details of this plan are practically all worked out and will be announced soon.

Supporters of the testing plan declare that much of the opposition is due to agitators who are ignorant of the real value of the test. In Jefferson county, the home of ex-Gov. Hoard, the practice of testing cattle by this method has been going on for over a dozen years, and today it is declared that if the test were no longer required by law it would be still demanded by the dairymen of this county in the buying and selling of cattle.

QUIET PREVAILS IN EDGERTON MARKET

Buying Movement is Now Practically Closed and Warehouse Work is Progressing.

While the buying of last season's crop is practically closed, according to the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter of April 7, a few scattering lots are all the time being taken over by dealers possessed with a desire to make a clean sweep of the state when they can secure it around former quotations. The receiving of purchases is going on as expeditiously as is possible even with the large holders. The American Tobacco Co. will about complete their receiving this week, having weighed up in the country and paid for over a million pounds in excess of their present storage facilities. Warehouse work is also progressing as fast as the limited help situation will permit.

There is little news to chronicle in the cured leaf market, either in the state or the eastern centers of trade. Sales are mainly of small consignments to meet a hand-to-mouth business. A. Jensen & Sons received a 27c lot of '06 from John Rue.

The weather conditions of the week have been unfavorable for farm work and scarcely anything has been accomplished in the way of preparing seed beds for another crop.

The shipments out of storage reach 300 cases from this market to all points for the first time. Since last report 19 car loads have been received from outside points for warehouse handling.

When the town of Gary was started, he with a small capital invested in land there and subdivided it into lots. Property holdings were purchased for about three thousand dollars and Mr. McGinnity went into the real estate business. The land controlled by him at the present time is estimated to be valued at about two hundred thousand dollars.

Origin of Peculiar Name.
The curious name of the anesthetic "stovaine" is due to its discoverer, M. Fourneau. M. Fourneau was anxious to perpetuate his own name in connection with it, but as the anesthetic was of the nature of cocaine and no compound resembling that could be contrived out of "Fourneau," he translated the name into its English equivalent of "stove" and added the necessary termination.

DEATH HAS CALLED AN OLD RESIDENT

Mrs. Mary F. Grubb, For Many Years a Resident Here, Passed Away This Morning.

Mrs. Mary F. Grubb, widow of the late William Grubb, passed peacefully away at seven o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Noyes, 625 Milwaukee avenue.

Mrs. Grubb was one of the old residents of the city and had lived here for many years past. She was born in Norfolk, Virginia, Aug. 7, 1826, and had lived to a ripe old age.

Four children survive her, two sons and two daughters: J. W. and S. D. Grubb of this city; Mrs. J. E. Hayner of Madison; and Mrs. W. H. Noyes of this city. She also leaves a granddaughter, Miss Ethyl Swan of Madison, the child of a deceased daughter, Mrs. C. D. Swan; and a grandson, Palmer Burdick of the town of Janesville, the son of another deceased daughter, Mrs. E. A. Burdick, who died a year ago.

Funeral services will be private and will be held at her late residence, 625 Milwaukee avenue, at two o'clock Monday afternoon. The family request that friends omit flowers.

James Rosoliter.

He leaves a mother, of this place, and two sisters: Miss Alice Rosoliter and Mrs. John Schaffer of Orfordville; and four brothers: Fred of Milwaukee; Frank of the town of Magnolia; Elsworth of Chicago; and Stephen of South Dakota. The funeral will be held tomorrow at one o'clock from the home and at two o'clock from the Methodist church, Rev. Kroner will officiate.

The deceased was a bright young man and has promise of a brilliant future. He had entered St. Olaf's college, Minnesota, last fall and had returned only recently to his home with the intention of managing the farm for the present season.

Besides his parents he leaves three brothers, the youngest of whom is now critically ill with pneumonia and one sister. The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at one o'clock from the home and at three o'clock from the East Luther Valley church, Rev. J. A. Bergh will officiate.

The grief stricken parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their hour of sadness.

Mrs. George W. Dibble.

Mrs. George W. Dibble died in Madison on Friday, evening after an illness of about one year. Mr. and Mrs. Dibble were at one time well known residents of the town of Center, having moved away from their home there to Fruitdale, Alabama, about eleven years ago. Mrs. Dibble returned to Madison about a year ago in very poor health and has been in that place until her death yesterday.

The remains were taken to Evansville today and the funeral will be held in that place tomorrow.

Where Mr. Wabash Lost Out.

Mr. Wabash (to Miss Waldo of Boston)—"I suppose, Miss Waldo, that your father is in business in Boston?"
Miss Waldo—"Oh, yes; he is one of the prominent shoe manufacturers there."
Mr. Wabash—"Ah, indeed. I have never had much business experience myself. Now, about how long does it take your father to make, say, a good eight-dollar shoe?"

Characteristics of Servians.

Servians in their good nature and love of humor are said to remind travelers of the Irish peasantry. They are hospitable to strangers; their patriotism is vehement, almost quixotic, and they take great interest in politics. Many of the domestics in the towns and cities come from abroad, as the Servian girl is too independent for domestic service.

Intellect Ruled by Superstition.

A man more absolutely governed by pure reason than Lord Macaulay could not well be found, but in his diary he refers to an after-dinner talk about the feeling which Johnson had—of thinking one's self bound to touch a particular rail or post and to tread in the middle of a paving stone, and he adds: "I certainly have this very strongly."

Chances of the Sailor Man.

The sea as a calling is certainly not what it once was by a long way. The class of men who did well 40 years ago would make a poor show now. It was common enough in days gone by for owners to look for a suitable man, and then build a ship for him, but it's the other way now.—British Nautical Magazine.

"Atheists" Converted.

A number of Servian conscripts, on entering Belgrade barracks to serve their time, announced themselves as atheists so as to avoid attendance in church. The commander got them to clean out the yard and stables every Sunday morning while their comrades went to mass. The atheists have now asked to be instructed with a view to conversion to the national creed.

OLD LADY SAVES MANY LIVES

With a Lantern She Flagged a Fast Train Just in Time to Avert Disaster.

Passengers of the Southern's Florida limited were just settling themselves for supper in the diner the other night when suddenly their conscience was dashed into their laps as the brakes ground against the wheels and the heavy train slowed to an emergency stop. But the homeward bound tourists who began swearing over the mishap changed the tenor of their remarks when they learned the reason of the sudden stop.

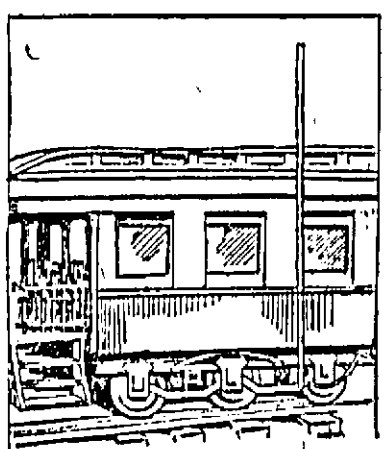

Old Mrs. Saylor, going home from a neighbor's about 13 miles south of Dalton, was walking along the track, and when she found a broken rail just beyond a sweeping curve in the track she knew the limited, due from Atlanta in a few moments, would go crashing over the embankment unless a warning came in time.

Mrs. Saylor picked up her skirts and ran for her home, stumbling over the rough patch and arriving out of breath and excited. Her husband, hastily told of the broken rail, lighted a red lantern and the two ran back to the curve and far around it. Just as they reached the straight stretch of track the glare of a headlight and a long blast of a whistle told them they were barely in time. A swing of the red light across the track, and the engineer shut off steam and threw on the airbrake. The big engine was brought to a stop barely in front of the broken rail. Then Mrs. Saylor and her husband climbed off the right of way and went home again. But that will not be the end of the incident, for the passengers appointed a committee to call on officials of the road and urge that a substantial reward be sent them.—Atlanta Georgian.

TELEPHONES FROM THE CAR

Railroad Officials of the Lehigh System in Constant Communication With All Points.

The moment one of the private cars of officials of the Lehigh Valley system comes to a stop on a siding or in a yard for a more or less prolonged period, the crew removes a long pole from its place underneath the car and hooks it to the nearest railway telephone line. This pole, with its reel of wire, makes a telephone connection between the car and the railway system so that the officials can transact business without the necessity of leaving their traveling offices.

The Lehigh Valley system is said to be the first to equip its officials' cars in this manner.—Popular Mechanic.

It Was Her Fate.

The young woman sat before her glass and gazed long and earnestly at the reflection there. She screwed up her face in many ways. She fluffed her hair and then smoothed it down again. She raised her eyes and lowered them; she showed her teeth and she pressed her lips tightly together. At last she got up, with a weary sigh, and said: "It's no use. I'll be some kind of a reformer."

COFFEE HEART

Very Plain in Some People.

A great many people go on suffering from annoying ailments for a long time before they can get their own consent to give up the indulgence from which their trouble arises.

A gentleman in Brooklyn describes his experience, as follows: "I became satisfied some months ago that I owed the palpitation of the heart from which I suffered almost daily, to the use of coffee. (I had been a coffee drinker for 30 years) but I found it very hard to give up the beverage.

"One day I ran across a very sensible and straightforward presentation of the claims of Postum, and was so impressed thereby that I concluded to give it a trial.

"My experience with it was unsatisfactory till I learned how it ought to be prepared—by thorough boiling for not less than 15 or 20 minutes. After I learned that lesson there was no trouble.

"Postum proved to be a most palatable and satisfactory hot beverage, and I have used it ever since.

"The effect on my health has been most salutary. The heart palpitation from which I used to suffer so much, particularly after breakfast, has disappeared and I never have a return of it except when I dine or lunch away from home and drink the old kind of coffee because Postum is not served.

I find that Postum cheers and invigorates while it produces no harmful stimulation." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

ions in athletics, while they are being heralded as approaching, have not yet started.

Baseball and basketball, which held away during the cold months, have closed their seasons and will be dominant until the frosty nip of approaching winter is again felt. Bowling found a large number of devotees the past season and predictions are for a more successful season to come.

Baseball, however, is the premier of the outdoor games in Janesville and it is now settled that the city will have a representative team. Manager Walter Breen and Ted Stokes of Beloit, who is the promoter of a nine there, were in conference in this city today. Yesterday these two gentlemen were in Rockford and present to talk over the situation with regard to the formation of a Trolley League.

The outlook is splendid for the organization of such a league. Both Mr.
Breen and Mr. Stokes are anxious to join. Elgin, Ill., will come in, and Rockford will furnish a traveling team.
Freeport is the one holding back and it is thought it can be arranged so that they will join the organization. Belvidere, too, may possibly be given entrance and Woodstock is suggested as willing to furnish a team. A meeting of the managers will be held soon at which time the organization will be perfected and officers chosen. Only Sunday games will be played as the men interested in the scheme feel that the receipts would not be sufficient to make weekday games pay.

Commercial League.
The Parker Pen company baseball nine which won the championship of the Commercial League in this city in 1910 is out for honors again this year and will put a strong team in the field. Their record for last year showed a clean sheet with not one defeat marked against them and they are hoping to repeat the performance if possible. The competition, however, will be more keen, and other teams in the league will fight just as hard for the honors. Two more teams will probably be added to the list this year.
The Rock River Cotton company will pick a nine from their employees and the Janesville Machine company, which is represented in the organization and won the championship two years ago will probably re-enter the race.

A league of indoor baseball teams among the members of the A. Junior class of the Young Men's Christian association of this city, has been organized by Acting Physical Director Str-ling Campbell, in charge of the sports at the Y. Four nines will compose the league, which will open its season for a short schedule on Monday with the arrival of fair weather makes it possible to play outdoors. The names of the captains have not been announced yet. Each member of the club will be allowed to play on one of the teams.

Trap Shooting.

Janesville gunners are beginning to take an interest in trap shooting again and as the season advances more of the sportsmen will be attracted. The local men have met and organized the Janesville Gun Club and on Tuesday evening last at a meeting of those interested, officers for the coming year were elected. The officers are: President, William Lawyer; vice-pres., William Fry; secretary, L. L. Nelsonson; and treasurer, Harry W. McNamee.
The event of the year will be a gun tournament, for which a set definite plans are uncompleted. The club however, will hold a practice shoot at the Fair Grounds every Friday afternoon.
Weather permitting, in preparation for the shoot fest. Some crack shots from out of town will compete for the prizes at the tournament, it is said.

FACULTY DOWNED BY SENIORS LAST NIGHT

High School Professors Were Defeated by Seniors in Spirited Basketball Game.

That the Faculty was unable to come back in the game of basketball, was again manifested to all who saw the game between the Faculty and Seniors last night. The Faculty, although a heavier team than the Upper classmen, were unable to cope with the situation, as is shown by the score of 24-14.

The Faculty all turned out to root for their team and so great was their confidence of winning that when they saw they were being trimmed they made not a sound. They had also decorated the gymnasium with the Faculty colors (black and blue) and just before the game was called they fled into the floor and presented their

EDLER WILL LEAD BASKET BALL TEAM

Star Guard of Local High School Basketball Five Has Been Elected Captain for Next Year.

At a recent meeting of the high school basketball team, Ray Edler was chosen to fill the position of captain for the coming year. In the first year of his high school course Edler entered the field of basketball and played with the second team for that season. All this past season he has played with the first team in the capacity of left guard. He was the star in every game. The "Rock of Gibraltar" which backed the team, and an invaluable guard who was given a position on the second all-star state team. Edler is only a sophomore and the record which he has established has never been equaled in the history of this high school.

Edler has excelled in other lines of athletics besides basketball. In his freshman year he made the football team and was the only man to play in every game of the season. He was also on the football team last fall.

GUN CLUB HELD A PRACTICE SHOOT

Janesville Gunners Participated in Second Match of the Season At Fair Grounds Yesterday.

Members of the Janesville Gun club held a practice shoot at the Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon. The second of its kind this season. Twelve of the local men took part in the shoot. The scores made were not high and were very commendable considering the fact that this was the second time a match of this kind has been held this year. The practice gun matches are being held in anticipation of the great event of the year in trap-shooting. Announcement is made today that this will be held in July,
but no definite date has been set.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Pitcher "King" Brackett will be given another chance with the Highlanders.

Of the Cleveland squad of 26 men at least 20 are more than six feet tall.
Jimmy Austin is playing third base for the St. Louis Browns and getting away with it.

It is said that Hugh Duffy has chosen
"Tex" Jones to play first base for the White Sox.

Manager McGraw will not allow Christy Mathewson to pitch any of the exhibition games this spring.
Coat Ferguson says that the New-York Nationals gave him a raw deal and that he has quit the game for good.

Mayor Gaynor of New York will take out the first ball when the Giants open the season at the Polo Grounds on April 12.

If Eddie Zimmerman can keep up the good work he is doing in practice games, he will be a spangled beauty in Brooklyn this season.

Connie Mack has secured three of the St. Mary's (Cal.) College boys.
They are, Lynch, left fielder; Wallace, third baseman and Fitzsimmons, shortstop.

George Van Haltren, the former Glent, is seeking a job as umpire in one of the Western leagues. "Rip" was an indicator man in the Connecticut last season.

"Kid" Eberhardt, the Washington fielder, says that he had playing days are over. It wasn't carriages that he used to make with the umpires.
The Pirates were working in the ball park at Hot Springs like horses when "Honus" Wagner came up to the gate. "Honus" took one shot at his comrades, said "Good night," and then went fishing.

WITH THE BOXERS.

Frankie Burns, the Oakland lightweight, is the latest sensation on the Pacific Coast.

In a little more than one year "One Round" Hogan has had 20 battles in 21 of which he carried knockouts.

Much Interest Shown in Janesville Industries By Traveling Men in Round of Plants.

Much enthusiasm was displayed throughout the day by the traveling men in making this an occasion of getting acquainted with the industries of their home town. It is safe to say that, with the inspection of the manufacturing plants all day today and the banquet tonight, that no event that has been planned in this city for some time will have accomplished the lasting good that this day has.

Plans have been made by many of the "Knights of the Grip" for weeks past to be able to get home on this occasion. This morning at 9:30 the members of the local Commercial Travelers met at the east side hotel and after a brief session started out on a round of inspection of the local factories. Many of these

MANY NEW BOOKS FOR THE SCHOOLS IN TOWNS OF COUNTY

County Superintendent Antiel has just finished the stocking of the different town school libraries with books to the total value of about four hundred dollars. With the exception of two or three he has been notified that the books have been sent and in a few days it is expected that they will have all received their share. Ten cent is laid aside for each child in the county of school age, each year out of the school fund and is used for this purpose. This will be quite a valuable addition to all of the town schools in the county.

FACULTY HOSTS AT THE BANQUET BOARD

Entertained in Honor of High School Athletes, Debaters and Contest Winners Last Evening.

After the Faculty-Senior game last evening the members of this year's basketball team, champions of southern Wisconsin and winners of third place in the Appleton state tournament, were the guests of the faculty at an elaborate banquet. The members of the football, debate teams, and the medal winners at the recent contest were also present. Following a very sumptuous repast, prepared by the lady members of the faculty, Prof. H. C. Buhl, toastmaster of the evening, presided.

Mr. Buhl stated that this was the first time in the history of the school that he had ever known the faculty to give a banquet to the athletes. He said that the cause of the sudden change in their regular customs was due to a feeling of respect for the athletes of this year, and he also stated that the pleasant event of last evening was to be credited to the thoughtfulness of the Misses Vlyman and Cuyler.

Mr. Hemming, captain of this year's team, was the first speaker of the evening. He thanked the faculty for their kindness and then briefly gave the history of the past basketball season.

Editor, captain-elect, in a very few words, told of the prospects of the next year's team. As only two of this year's team graduates, he thought that Janesville would have a fair outlook for the next season.

Miss Doty next spoke on the basketball season. She had the option of teasing them or roasting them, but she saw fit to laud them highly with poetical verse instead.

Coach Knudson, after a short talk, presented the football and basketball boys with "J's" which they had earned by their achievements during the past season.

Don Korst, captain-elect of the football team, was unable to be present, and Miss Head spoke on "Public Speaking." She told of Janesville's good outlook and highly praised the talent in the school. This concluded the program and with a rousing cheer for the faculty the guests departed.

READING MATTER FOR PASSION WEEK

Some Books and Articles Which May Be Found in Public Library Regarding Life of Christ.

With the approach of Passion week and the Easter season there is a demand for books and articles concerning the life of Christ. All of the city churches are to observe the week with services and interest in these and in the passion week in general may be increased by a perusal of some of the reading matter which may be found at the library covering topics of interest at this time. The list follows:

Dawson: Life of Christ. The authors object is to depict the human life of Jesus as it appeared to His contemporaries.

Gladstone: "Ecco Homo." Also brings out the human character of Christ. The preface of the book explains very fully the author's attitude.

Hyde: Christ the Orator. The little details the nature of this book.

As Others Saw Him. Treats of the most important events, from the many in the life of Christ.

Phelps: Story of Jesus Christ. The book is neither theology or criticism, but is a narrative.

Magazine articles on the Passion play are very timely literature for Holy week. The following is a short list from the many articles written on this play.

Masterpiece: Mary Magdalene. A modern drama, fitting for this season.

He Didn't Push.

There are some queer men in this world. Near Bristol, England, a few weeks ago, a tall chimney of a factory tumbled down in a gale of wind, and yet the owner of the factory had a boy thirteen years old arrested for pushing it over to spite him. It was sworn in court that the combined strength of 500 men would have been required.

Useless Area Added to Britain.

Since 1883 the sea has washed away 419 acres of the British Isles, but it has also added 30,752. The land gained, however, is at present useless.

WEARY WILLIES AT THE CITY LOCK-UP

Thirty-Nine Were the Total Breaking Previous Records.

Last night the record for the season in the number of lodgers housed in the city lock-up, thirty-nine being the largest number previous to this. This morning thirty-nine hungry specimens of humanity, sought means to secure a breakfast, before leaving town, looking to the citizens of Janesville to be donors.

Since the abolition of the practice of giving the men something to eat before leaving the police station, these wanderers have been forced to beg and ration by begging or other means and most of them will be hungry when they go hungry. Many complaints against this are made, but there seems to be no cure as Janesville, being a railroad town, is a step over for the unfortunate who claim no home and have no roof of their own to shelter them. Many of them are not below by choice, but through force of circumstances and the majority have learned a trade. However, with a few weeks growth of beard, clothes nearly worn out or "hand-me-downs" secured by begging, they present an appearance that makes it hard to distinguish the deserving alms-seeker from the cunning "bo" or tramp. The "weary willie" of the road, however, will crawl into an empty packing box or deep before he will ask lodging in the police station, through a proverbial four of the law.

Complaints are received principally from housewives who are annoyed with the requests for food and who naturally fear their would-be guests. While the men may not be victims, their appearances would seem to indicate this and an opportunity is often afforded the beggar when he is allowed to enter the house to pick up some small article that does not belong to him.

It is held that the system of giving the lodgers a breakfast before starting them on their way, would eliminate this nuisance. When the system was in vogue in the city before, the men, after leaving the police station invariably started for the railroad yards and left the city immediately. As it is now, they often remain in the city the greater part of the forenoon in an endeavor to get the "cents".

An estimate made of the cost to feed the hungry individuals who spend the night at the "city's hotel" placed the figures at about fifty cents for the entire aggregation of thirty-nine, or a little more than a cent for each. Twelve loaves of bread, allowing two or three slices to the man, would have sufficed and a half pound of coffee in a large boiler kept for the purpose would have been enough for two or three cups for each. The bread could be purchased from the bakeries for three cents a loaf, thirty six cents for a dozen loaves and coffee at fifteen cents a pound for feeding all would not be in excess of seven or eight cents. To this a few cents for gas to heat the coffee would make the cost well within fifty cents.

PEOPLES' COLUMN.
April 7, 1911.

To the Editor:
I would like, through your columns, to draw attention to some things which came to my notice on Tuesday last concerning one of the voting places of our city. I happen to be a resident of the Fifth ward and, accompanied by other ladies, I went to the voting place to cast my vote for school officers. On arriving there we found a group of men on the outside, and still more inside standing around. The place was reeking with tobacco smoke, and seated just inside the door was one man, who evidently was seated because he was unable to stand. After standing awhile at the machine waiting while the men in charge were trying to get it ready for me to vote, they informed us the machine had not been fixed for women to vote, and gave us some seats while they got some ballots made out.

I have been informed that women have had the right to vote for school commissioners for about ten years, and this being so, I would like to ask, why is it that our votes are not provided for?

I think I can see the reason why more of our good women do not go to vote, after seeing what things they have to encounter.

How much longer will the women of this city who wish to use their privileges, have to be seated, while bullies are prepared to in a place where drunken men are allowed to all around and pass remarks? I would suggest that it might be a good thing to have an officer stationed at these voting places to keep them clear of loafers and drunks.

A McCarthy Epigram.
Justin Huntly McCarthy can write epigrams when he chooses, as well as descriptions of love and of fighting; for, for example, this bit of succinct wisdom, which he puts into the mouth of Lewis the Ghentian, in Needles and Pins: "Never explain; many a bad explanation spoils a good case."

Oh, Ask Something Easy.
In this nation founded in love of liberty, made generous by the pith of its wealth, lifted to grand heights by the freedom of individual thought and itself the highest concept of government yet born to earth, to stand dumbly ministering angel among world powers, the big brother to the poor and the weak?—Denver Republican.

TEXT—If I had not come and spoken unto them . . . If I had not done among them the works which none other did.—John 15:22-24.

An innovation in sermons as delivered by the more modern ministers was listened to by a large congregation the other evening when Doctor Earl delivered his sermon in verse.

If Jesus had not come to earth, If angels had not sung his birth, If stars had not been in the north, If poor the world would be, If Jesus had not said the word, The like of which had never been heard, How sad for you and me!

If Jesus had not come from heaven, Our souls would not have been forgiven, And broken hearts with sorrow riven Would hopeless beat and bleed, If Jesus had not been born There would not be a Christmas morn, And earth of good things would be short, "As Now the Sun's Declining Rays," Barnaby.

No Christmas cheer would lighten hearts, No closing of our busy marts, No Santa Claus whose reindeer starts With jangling bells and sleigh, No "Merry Christmas" greeting glad, No family gathering round the board, No presents brought from places stored, No glad surprise for those adored, No Christmas season treasts.

No hampers for the poor who need, No kindly word, no generous deed, Nothing to ease the world from greed—A Christmas world, alas! The poor would eat their scanty fare, Their faces plucked, their cupboards bare, And men with plenty would not care To mingle with the mass.

No house of God would grace the street, With open door, where Christians meet, Whose noble souls the heavens greet, If Jesus had not come, Catholic and protestant would have sprung With valued roof and precious hue, Where praises of the Christ are sung, Where nothing can be dumb.

But in the place where church would stand, A crocodile would pre-empt the land, And leave on men its ugly brand—A drunkard's bloated face, And where the hospital should be A prison we should likely see, Guarding the man who might be free—If Christ had not sought the race.

If Christ in Paradise had stayed, If sin on him had not been laid, If ransom price he had not paid, Distress would be our lot, No hope, no pardon, no release, No joy, no cleansing and no peace, Our growing troubles never cease—We lose the battles fought.

If Christ had kept himself away, How empty would our bookshelves stay, And poor indeed would be our day Of letters' golden store, The gospel's four would not appear, New Testaments would not be here, For lives of Christ we'd drop a tear, And many, many more.

All literature we must revise If Christ remained above the skies, From Chaucer to the Brownings wise, For Christ inspired their pen, And songs shall lose their noble tone From Gregory to Mendelssohn, And in their places hopeless mean Will fill the world of men.

The pictures from the walls now take! Madonnas are a huge mistake! No Ecce Homo longer make! If Jesus never came, The letters B. C. now destroy, And A. D. never more employ, For they are but a false decoy, If Christ is but a name.

But Christ has come! His day we hail! Before his star all others pale; His song transforms every wall—His manger is a throne, And since he came the burden's light; Death has no sting, the future's bright; We walk by faith and not by sight, And trust in him alone.

Life's Opportunities.
We are never at the end of this life's opportunities—not until this life has ended for us. There never comes to any one living the time when he has the right to say: "My opportunity is gone." A particular opportunity may indeed have passed us—lost through our own carelessness and sin; but in the instant of its passing another opportunity is ours, rich and golden. "Life is in the making" as long as an hour of life remains.

And no one less than Christ himself, in whom and through whom all things are created, is at hand—better than that, dwell within us if we will—to lay hold of the new opportunity for us and lead us into it in a triumph that shall be greater than any imagining of ours for ourselves in all our life before has been. That is the way God lavishes his love upon us. He, the Creator, who calls the things that are not as though they were, is ceaselessly calling into being new glories and achievements for us in spite of all our wrecks of the past. If he is not discouraged about us, why should we be?

The Temple of God.
"Ye that are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them."—2 Cor. vi:16.

God within us! Not only ever with us unseen, not only watching us in our secret moments and reading the very thoughts of our hearts, not only covering us with the shadow of his wings and lighting us with the light of his countenance, but within us, our bodies his temple, our hearts his home. Oh, if we could but grasp the thought, we should live lives nobler and more beautiful.—Canon F. W. Farrar.

Increase of Crime in London.
The figures of the London police courts show a very decided increase during recent years in serious crime.

ACQUIT WOMAN OF MURDER

Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks, Who Killed Her Husband's "Affinity," Is Set Free on Insanity Plea.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 8.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks, who shot and killed Mrs. Mary Hiltner, the affinity of her husband, former Judge T. W. Brooks, returned a verdict of acquittal on the ground that the defendant was insane when she committed the deed. At the last minute on Thursday night Mrs. Brooks' attorney asked the jury to disregard the unwritten law which had been used as a defense and to base its consideration of the case on the question of insanity. It had been shown on the stand that Mrs. Brooks remembered none of the details of the shooting, and that her mind was a blank until she was aroused some time later by her nineteen-year-old son.

Fears "Black Hand" Suicide.
Peoria, Ill., April 8.—Peering death, by the "Black Hand," Joe Myers, a Russian Jew, and a cooper machinist, threw himself in front of an electric car and died within two hours. As he plunged forward he said: "Death now, I fear the 'Black Hand.'"

The Gold Brick
At the Waldorf-Astoria on Feb. 19th a long-haired gentleman for dinner. This gentleman had with him a brick of pure gold and offered it as security for a twelve-dollar meal. The waiter had his own idea of "the eternal fitness of things," and notified the detective who in turn brought in the chief detective of the building for the purpose of showing that they were not to be imposed on. The chief detective speedily recognized the offender with the gold brick as a man who could afford to carry about with him large quantities of gold, and the astute waiter was given to understand that he must use better judgment in sizing up real conditions.

Sizing People Up
It requires men of good judgment to separate the wheat from the chaff, the good from the bad, in all business affairs.

Evidence of Profit
The fact that The Gazette carries a great volume of advertising every day in the year, that the same advertisers use space continuously each week and month in the year, is in itself sufficient evidence that advertising pays. That the biggest advertisers are the shrewdest business men in Janesville makes the evidence doubly effective.

How to Get in Line
In fact, there are but few men in business today laboring under the impression that advertising is an expense. Every business man who is not now using The Gazette to give his business the right kind of publicity, should ask himself this question: "How can I use advertising in my business?"

The best answer will be forthcoming when he calls on the Advertising Department of The Gazette. This department is trained to meet the conditions of every form of publicity and to know where in a business man can use advertising to best advantage.

Unprofitable Business Not Wanted
The Gazette will not permit "unprofitable" advertising to appear in its columns. Every dissatisfied advertiser is a stumbling block in the path of advancement of this department of The Gazette, and every advertising campaign performed must make good, or it is discontinued.

Call up 77-2 rings today and have our advertising man to go over the matter of advertising your business. He will appreciate the opportunity to talk the matter over with you.

Little Bed-Time Tales

The Gypsy Children.
THE warm weather had come again and with it the clear skies and the green fields. The birds sang merrily in the trees and along the country road it was peaceful and quiet. Suddenly there came a cloud of dust in the distance and slowly there came nearer a circus-like procession—great horse-drawn wagons pulled by plodding horses. If you had paused long enough to listen you would have heard the men who walked along by the side of the horses singing quaint songs, and then if you had peeped into the backs of the canvas horse wagons you would have seen some very gaily dressed women. In one wagon along toward the end of the procession you would have seen a very sweet little girl and boy. They were gypsy children and the large gypsy families were moving.

You know the gypsies are a people who love the outdoor life and they travel about the country, pitching their camps in the cool shade of the woodlands. These gypsies, to whom little Wakna and Stradella belonged, were even now searching for a camping place and as the procession moved along the road the men were ever on the watch for a comfortable clearing which in time of the stormy weather would make the camp sheltered from the storm.

Presently a great "Ah" was heard from one of the men and the line of teams stopped. And then what a busy scene followed. The teams were driven into the clearing under the trees. The horses were unhitched and tied close by cross sticks were placed in position from which to hang the great dinner pot and in the shortest possible time a fire was roaring underneath the pot.

Glad to get away from the hot dusty road Wakna and Stradella ran gleefully about in the cool shade chasing butterflies and pausing here and there to gather some sweet flowers. Constantly in the outdoor air they were just as healthy as could be, while their little faces were as brown as berries. In spite of it all being out of doors it was a very cosy place there in the gypsy camp.

There was one thing in particular you would have liked about it. Everybody sang pretty songs all of the time. Even the children sang sweet songs and at night when they crept into the great canvas covered wagons to sleep the last thing they would remember would be some good night song and it seemed to come from so very far away.

Perhaps they would stay there in the woodland for two weeks and then they would pack up and the long procession of teams would start again for some new spot.

Perhaps some day as you are out driving in the country you may come across these gypsies and you may really see and talk to Wakna and Stradella. I am sure you will like them for they are always so very happy.

CREDITORS SEIZE G. W. JACKSON, INC.

Chicago Contracting Firm in Financial Straits.

IS HELD SOLVENT, HOWEVER

Action Is Taken to Provide Cash to Carry Out Enterprises Now Under Way and Prevent Failure.

Chicago, April 8.—George W. Jackson, Inc., one of the largest and best known contracting firms in the country, whose name is associated with many large municipal enterprises, is in financial straits, and a creditors' committee has been appointed to take charge of affairs and head off bankruptcy proceedings.

The liabilities of the firm are estimated at more than $1,000,000, but friends of Mr. Jackson asserted that the concern was solvent and that the assets were ample, provided contracts under way could be pushed to completion.

It is to furnish ready cash to carry out the contracts that the creditors' committee has been formed.

The creditors say that if the firm is forced into bankruptcy and a receiver appointed, valuable contracts may be forfeited and expenses incurred which will cause a loss to every one interested.

Expands Too Rapidly.
Milton J. Foreman, of Foreman, Lovin & Robertson, counsel for the creditors' committee, said there was not the slightest doubt that every creditor would be paid in full, if the ready cash could be raised at once and the firm kept going.

"The company has been expanding too rapidly," Mr. Foreman said, "that it has used up its available capital for equipment and cannot pay labor and other debts necessary to carry on its business. If the company is thrown into the hands of a receiver a contract of $1,500,000 for a water aqueduct in New York might be forfeited. The company has on hand other large contracts which must be completed, and the hope of the creditors is to keep the business going without any delay."

Owes Bank $100,000.
Mr. Waldeck, vice-president of the Continental and Commercial National bank, said that Mr. Jackson owed the bank approximately $100,000.

"The creditors have implicit confidence in Mr. Jackson," Mr. Waldeck said, "and believe he will pull through. In my opinion we will get 100 cents on the dollar."

Mr. C. C. Cobb, chairman of the creditors' committee, said he believed the liabilities amounted to about $1,000,000, and that the value of the assets was not accurately known, but that they were enough to meet the liabilities.

New York Corporation.
George W. Jackson was incorporated in 1906 under the laws of New York. Its property is located in this city and consists of a bridge and steel plant, warehouse and real estate. The capital stock authorized is $2,000,000 common and $1,000,000 preferred, only $700,000 of the latter being outstanding. The preferred stock is entitled to seven per cent. cumulative dividends, which have been paid regularly since the organization of the company. An initial dividend of four per cent. on the common stock was declared in January of last year, payable one per cent. quarterly.

CONVICT "BLACK HAND" HEAD

Federal Jury Affirms That Italian Leader Blackmailed Merchant Whose Store Was Dynamited.

Chicago, April 8.—The first conviction of a "Black Hand" agent in the United States courts was recorded by a jury before Judge Kenesaw M. Landis in the United States district court.

Gianni Alongi, arrested by government agents to be a leader of the Chicago branch of the Italian organization, was found guilty of attempting to extort money from Carmine Marana, a merchant in the North Side Italian district.

Alongi was indicted several months ago on the charge of sending five letters to Marana, whose store and house were dynamited in January after he had refused to pay the $500 demanded.

Judge Landis delayed imposition of sentence. The maximum penalty for this crime is 20 years imprisonment. During the first trial of Alongi, which resulted in a disagreement, Judge Landis was threatened with death by the "Black Hand" if Alongi should be convicted.

ROBBER HOLDS UP SIX MEN

Masked Bandit Boards Train Within the City Limits of St. Louis—No Passengers Are Molested.

St. Louis, April 8.—Iron Mountain passenger train No. 4 was boarded last night within the city limits by an armed and masked robber, who held up the white steward on the dining car, four negro waiters and a negro chef. No passengers were molested.

The robber, as far as has been disclosed in reports to the police, did not get more than $10.

This train is the same one on which the Pacific Express company's messenger was held up and robbed a month ago by two men.

REBELS RAID RANCHES

SEIZE PROPERTY OF AMERICANS AND CHASE MANAGERS.

United States Army Officer Makes Demand for Return of Stolen Goods—Madero in Ultimatum.

Calexico, Cal., April 8.—With bullets flying about them, managers of the Cudahy ranch, in an automobile, won a race with rebel cavalry to the international boundary. The incident was the climax of a marauding expedition started by Stanley Williams, the rebel leader, who has been operating independent of the insurrecto forces at Mexicali.

The chase followed the looting of the Cudahy ranch, owned by John Cudahy of Chicago, by Williams' men. The Americans on the ranch learned of Williams' design and started for the American line.

The raiding band numbered 87 men. After the arrival of Williams in Mexicali Capt. J. H. Grimith, commanding the United States troops here, summoned General Salinas to the boundary and made a formal demand for the return of all property taken by Williams. Salinas promised to comply.

The ranch of the California-Mexican Land & Cattle company, controlled by Gen. H. G. Otis of Los Angeles, was also raided.

Five hundred federal soldiers are camped at Little's ranch, five miles to the southwest of Mexicali. Governor Vega, who is in command, says he will take time to reconnoiter, but probably will attack Mexicali today.

Madero's Camp, Huastillas Estate, near Chihuahua, Mexico, April 8.—What he declared to be his ultimatum on the question of peace was delivered by Francisco I. Madero. While insisting that President Diaz retire and the country be given a new election, Senator Madero said he was willing to resign as "provisional president" and, if necessary, would allow a provisional president to be selected from Diaz' cabinet.

Every insurrecto is provided with ammunition and is ready for instant fighting orders.

WATER POWER SITE MEN MEET

Important Conference of Transmission Section of National Electric Light Association Is Held.

New York, April 8.—Delegates from every state east of the Mississippi river and from several far-western states are here attending the special conference of the power transmission section of the National Electric Light association, which today grappled with the problems of conservation as regards the electrical phases of the subject. The findings of the conference will be transmitted to the association at its annual convention in May, to be formulated into hints for congressional action in the line of legislation affecting the water-power sites. As the association embraces ninety per cent. of the capital invested in electrical companies in the United States, its point of view cannot well be disregarded.

The purpose of the conference was thus outlined in the statement of the association's president, W. W. Freeman: "The political conservation propaganda tends to tie up all natural resources, including water supply. We assert that such a policy is one of waste. There will be no attempt, however, to make this view prevail at this conference." Papers covering every angle of the water-power problem are being read and discussed.

DEMOCRATS BALK AT POWERS

Kentuckians Will Refuse to Serve on Committees With Man Convicted of Goshel Murder.

Washington, April 8.—The ways and means committee has informed Mr. Mann of Illinois, minority leader, that it will accept any Republicans who nominate for committee membership—but there is one condition. Mr. Mann has been notified that he must not name Mr. Caleb Powers of Kentucky for a committee on which any Kentucky Democrats are to serve, unless he wants to start a row.

It is stated by a member of the committee that the Kentucky Democrats will refuse to serve with Powers, in view of his conviction for the murder of Governor Goshel.

Hunnswell, Kan., April 8.—After winning the majority of Hunnswell, Mrs. Ella Wilson was counted out by the old city council and the certificate of election given to her opponent, O. M. Akers, who is town clerk.

The council reported Akers had one more vote than Mrs. Wilson. She has engaged lawyers to contest the case.

ELECT MARTIN LEADER

VIRGINIA SENATOR DEFEATS SHIVELY OF INDIANA.

As Chairman of Democratic Caucus He Will Name Steering Body to Fill Committee Vacancies.

Washington, April 8.—Senator Martin of Virginia was elected Democratic leader of the upper chamber by a vote of 21 to 10.

Senator Shively of Indiana was voted for by the opposition to Martin. Senator O'Gorman, the new senator from New York, voted for Shively.

As chairman of the Democratic caucus and leader of the minority Senator Martin will name a steering committee which will fill committee vacancies, assign new members to places and report its action to a future caucus for approval or dissent.

members of their party, their right to assignment to important committees and to be consulted in the management of party affairs in the upper house, prevented the caucus from ending in bad blood.

Martin was chosen after a ballot was cast, receiving 21 votes and Shively of Indiana 16, with three senators absent. This was the first time within the past 16 years at least that a ballot was required to determine the chairmanship of the caucus and Senator Bacon expressed the hope it would be the last. Martin was nominated by Clarke of Arkansas and Shively by John W. Kern. Among the 16 men, all classed as progressive Democrats who voted for Shively as against Martin, was Senator O'Gorman.

PROPOSED GRADUATE COLLEGE, THE FIRST OF ITS KIND IN AMERICA.

General view of the graduate college, showing the Grover Cleveland memorial tower at the left. Below, Andrew F. West, dean of the Princeton Graduate school, who has been active in the cause of the graduate college. At right, ground floor plan of the graduate college.

Princeton, N. J.—Fourteen years ago the agitation was started for a Princeton graduate college. Today because of the efforts of a few interested parties the plan is to be consummated in a magnificent architectural structure of classic design, in which a limited number of men may pursue the higher fields of learning.

Among those who have been most vitally interested in the success of this project may be mentioned Mrs. Swan, a life-time resident of this city, who left the greater part of her estate to the proposed college; William C. Proctor, Grover Cleveland, Taylor Palmer and Isaac C. Wayman.

The style of architecture is to be so-called collegiate Gothic. Dormitories have been arranged around two sides and part of the third on the quadrangle. A large dining room and a second smaller dining room, together with reading rooms and lounging rooms provided with fire places, constitute the balance of the quadrangle.

The object of the graduate college is to develop a broad, sympathetic study of the big problems in literature, than the specialized study of one particular branch, as is generally supposed. The object may be summed up in the word, breadth, as different-ated from the specialist who has made a life study of one particular branch of science or field of education.

The Princeton graduate college is the first of its kind to be attempted in the United States. It is patterned after the fundamental principles of the French, German and English residential colleges, as for example, the little entry way hard by the great tower of Trinity Cambridge, where were housed as students Sir Isaac Newton, McCulloch, Thackeray and Tennyson, or Christ College, the student home of Milton and Darwin.

It is the object of the founders that eventually the new world may look to its graduate college as the seat of profound thought along advanced lines which shall develop men whose work will outlive the ages.

SCHUMANN-HEINK IN LOVE WITH "ROSARY"

Famous Contralto Tells How She Sang It for German Emperor—Her Analysis of the Verses.

"I had never heard 'The Rosary' until two years ago," said Mme. Schumann-Heink recently, the great German contralto who will make her first Janesville appearance at the Myers Theatre Tuesday evening, April 25, under the direction of Clara Bowen Shepard. "A young woman from St. Louis, who is now studying for grand opera in Berlin, came to sing it for me. I got the song at once, studied it, and began to sing it in concert. Now, I am not a concealed woman, but I think after learning some one hundred and fifty old operas and several hundred songs in the course of my life, that I know a good song when I hear it. And I said to 'The Rosary'."

"When I went to Europe a year ago I was honored with an invitation to sing for the Kaiser. He was entertaining the Queen of England, and I was asked to the palace to sing while they had tea. I sang several German songs, and then like a good German citizen, I sang 'The Rosary.' The Kaiser is not only a good musician, but a composer, and he liked it immensely and asked me to sing other American songs. I was very happy to be able to sing him 'The Rosary'."

"How he did enjoy the lift of it. He asked for more 'The Rosary' and I sang him 'O Let Night Speak of Me.' The German public went wild over the 'Rosary' and compelled me to repeat it every time it was sung."

"Here in America it is the song I love to sing best. I know that every word of it goes straight to the heart of every listener. It has always the same effect. There is a spontaneous burst of applause as the audience catches the first familiar phrase. Then comes silence that grows tense and tender. I can see and feel in every face before me that what is in my heart is in theirs, and we are both swept along in artistic transport to that exquisite cry for happiness that has captured us. A song like this to make all hearts beat together is a work of genius. The writer of these verses furnished the material for a great song. His first verse is narrative, the second contemplative, and then comes the climax. He moves toward it surely and strongly, reaching an impassioned height in that agonizing cry 'Sweetheart.' That is a poem to wake an echo in every heart and has suffered the pain of loss. And what human heart is without that wound? The song is so familiar I need not describe how Novin has expressed this story of an aching heart in music. But if you study the melody outline of the song it may surprise you to discover the connection that exists between the poet's imagery and the musical form. All of us do not 'tell our hearts' as the saying is, but we know that the rosary is a string of small beads, with a larger bead strung between each set of ten smaller ones. Now notice the composer's phrases, how it slips along in lighter notes, just as the small beads would slip through our fingers. And at the end of every such phrase comes a long note and a pause. This is repeated over and over after the manner of the pious devotee of the rosary. Now observe the melodic outline of the climax on the line 'To kiss the cross—Sweetheart—to kiss the cross.' The first part is sung on one note. The voice goes up and then down on the word 'sweetheart,' and the concluding phrase is sung on one note as was the beginning. The composer has actually made the sign of the cross in his notation to convey the idea of the crucifix which the devotee of the rosary kisses in concluding his devotion."

"I had noticed the song a great deal before I heard this, and I have often wondered since how many of those who hear the song are conscious of it."

If you aim to live a better life, full of happiness and good cheer bring your family and spend an evening with the greatest of all great colored musical comedies, attractions, composed of people to whom a glance of approval ever brings a smile and a laugh, and a song from whose lips and a shuffle from whose feet spreads through all like a ripple of cool breezes on a summer's day. At this entertainment you can find producers of mirth, music and melody generously diffused by a race that is as free from care as children and bubbling over with happiness. Remember, there is but one Damon's Colored Musical Comedy Co., and but one Prof. A. M. Damon, and both are yours for the evening's enjoyment on the date mentioned.

It was because of this marriage and the latter domestic troubles that the ex-president was brought to a premature grave through worry.

Right on the heels of the announcement that Liebler & Co. are to bring Mme. Simone, the former Mme. Le Bargy now styles herself, to this country next season to play in the English language, comes the important news that Henri Bernstein is to write a new play that is to serve to introduce the greatest French actress to American audiences, and that it is to be played here even before it is staged in France.

Ever since Mme. Simone's stage debut, her career has been closely related to that of Henri Bernstein. An intimate friend of Mme. Bernstein's, Mme. Simone took up theatrical work nine years ago by order of the ex-president. Her career has been a work of genius. The writer of these verses furnished the material for a great song. His first verse is narrative, the second contemplative, and then comes the climax. He moves toward it surely and strongly, reaching an impassioned height in that agonizing cry 'Sweetheart.' That is a poem to wake an echo in every heart and has suffered the pain of loss. And what human heart is without that wound? The song is so familiar I need not describe how Novin has expressed this story of an aching heart in music. But if you study the melody outline of the song it may surprise you to discover the connection that exists between the poet's imagery and the musical form. All of us do not 'tell our hearts' as the saying is, but we know that the rosary is a string of small beads, with a larger bead strung between each set of ten smaller ones. Now notice the composer's phrases, how it slips along in lighter notes, just as the small beads would slip through our fingers. And at the end of every such phrase comes a long note and a pause. This is repeated over and over after the manner of the pious devotee of the rosary. Now observe the melodic outline of the climax on the line 'To kiss the cross—Sweetheart—to kiss the cross.' The first part is sung on one note. The voice goes up and then down on the word 'sweetheart,' and the concluding phrase is sung on one note as was the beginning. The composer has actually made the sign of the cross in his notation to convey the idea of the crucifix which the devotee of the rosary kisses in concluding his devotion."

title and a new star. The title will be "Glorious Wife" and "Glorious Son," who just closed in "The Black-Adrians" will have the star part in the new play.

Miss Viola Allen is to have a new comedy by the author of "Dorothy." The play which has been written for her by Israel Zangwill is to be held in reserve or else turned over to another of the Liebler & Co. tentative stars.

Bessie Clayton, the American dancer, who has been enthusiastically received in Paris and London, dislocated her hip a short time ago while dancing in the ballet, "The Mad Pierrot," at the Alhambra, London, and will be forced to rest for some time.

Liebler & Co. have accepted two out of three new plays submitted by C. M. S. McLaughlin and expect to produce them next season. His new musical piece, "The Pink Lady," is reported to be a success, and "Marriage à la Carte" will be revived during the coming season.

Charles Cartwright is to appear next season in the United States in his own play, which is based upon Dickens' "David Copperfield." His Dan'l Pogony in this dramatization has made a great hit in London, where Mr. Cartwright acted in the play through a long run in the Adelphi Theatre.

Contracts for the production of a modern comedy, written for Mrs. Fiske by Landell Mitchell, and for a serious play adapted from the French have been signed by Harrison Grey Fiske. Mr. Mitchell has provided Mrs. Fiske with two of her most successful plays, "The New York Idea," and "Becky Sharp."

The already numerous list of theatres in New York City—too numerous, the managers say—will be increased on Easter Monday, when William A. Brady will open The Playhouse on Forty-eighth street, near Broadway. It is of the big type of theatres. Miss Grace George in "Source for the Gods" will open the house.

Mme. Simone, who comes next season to act in English, will have two of the Bernstein plays in her repertoire: "The Thief," which will be her first offering in each city visited, and the one known in French as "Le Heralde," which is now being acted elsewhere in English by Miss Olga Nethersole, as "The Redemption of Evelyn Vaudrey." Possibly Bernstein's "Apropos Mot" will also be added, if it can be arranged with Charles Frohman, who holds the American rights to the play.

NO HAREM SKIRT FOR THIS AMERICAN ACTRESS—HELEN WARE.

"The American public will never stand for such sartorial extremes as the trousers skirt in the serious drama. I am convinced that our public will not tolerate anything that conflicts with a well balanced dramatic picture."

Such was Helen Ware's arraignment of the harem skirt that had its "try-out" in the "Comedie Francaise" in Paris with such sad results, and the arraignment is especially apt, coming as it does, from a star who cannot be accused of getting outside the dramatic picture.

It was with some difficulty that Miss Ware, who is to star in "The Price," a new play by George Bernard Shaw, could be persuaded to take the trousers skirt seriously enough to common sense.

"I might be taken as a hint for some comments on what we know will be the American public will not tolerate in serious drama," she said. "I have to note that the effect upon the audience at the dress rehearsal at the Comedie Francaise, when Miss Ware appeared in one of these sartorial experiments, was hardly complimentary with the dignity of that theater. I read that there were loud whispers of amazement and subdued laughter, and that it looked for a time as if the trousers skirt might arrest the performance."

"I certainly do not believe in sartorial extremes in serious dramatic productions. The costumes of the cast should be in perfect keeping with the period and the scene of the play. Extremes should be avoided unless a part calls for them—and then they are consistent. Extremes in dress have a tendency to distract the audience's attention from the actor's ability. Such things do not have enough to the imagination. They take one's mind away from the part, destroy the illusion of acting and detract from the completeness of the stage picture."

"The same criticism can be made, generally, with women assuming men's roles. Bernstein can play Hamlet because she is Bernstein. The American public would not regard any other actress in such a role as it does Bernstein."

"Unusual for extremes in dress in the serious drama detract the idea of the actor and detract the audience's attention from the actor's ability. The thing desired, not undue accentuation of any one part. In such things we lose sight of the real purpose of the drama—a well-balanced ensemble."

ALMOST A TRAGEDY

A tenant from an alley rushed, a building on his trail.

"Twas midnight, all the streets were hushed
When, hark! across a wall
That reached the very stars on high
And tore the night in twain.
A cry who heard that dreadful cry
With sudden fear was taken.
And many a dreamer in his bed,
Aroused from sleep profound,
A-rebounding felt and muttered,
"The murder, fit to sound."
But such was not the case, nor yet,
Was such the cause to be.
The building failed his prey to get,
The tenant climbed a tree.

IT SHOCKED HER.

"My goodness," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "I can't understand how anyone ever is daring to muster up enough courage or ability or whatever it is to go flying on an aeroplane. There is nothing in the world that could induce me to travel on one, no matter how safe they make them."

"Yes, it's perfectly awful the way folks risk their lives," replied her sister as she rubbed an $8.00 roll on her velvet sleeve. "I really think a good many people go crazy over their kind of things. When I was a girl I went to see a man who went up in a balloon and came down on his parachute, and it affected me so I never want to see anything of that kind again as long as I live."

Go In for Dairying In This New Country

Farmers who want new locations where land is cheap, yet where the climate, the soil, the conveniences are good, will do well to investigate the new country—The STANLEY COUNTRY, in Northern Wisconsin.

I have listed with me for sale farms of all sizes at prices as low as $12.50 per acre and up to $20.00. The land is located on three railways, is but 128 miles from St. Paul, Minn., 133 miles from Duluth, and only 245 miles from Milwaukee. It is bound to advance—to double and treble its value.

The land is cut over Hard Wood land with plenty of tame grasses planted by the owners wherever it has been cleared. Alsycia and Timothy grow in abundance.

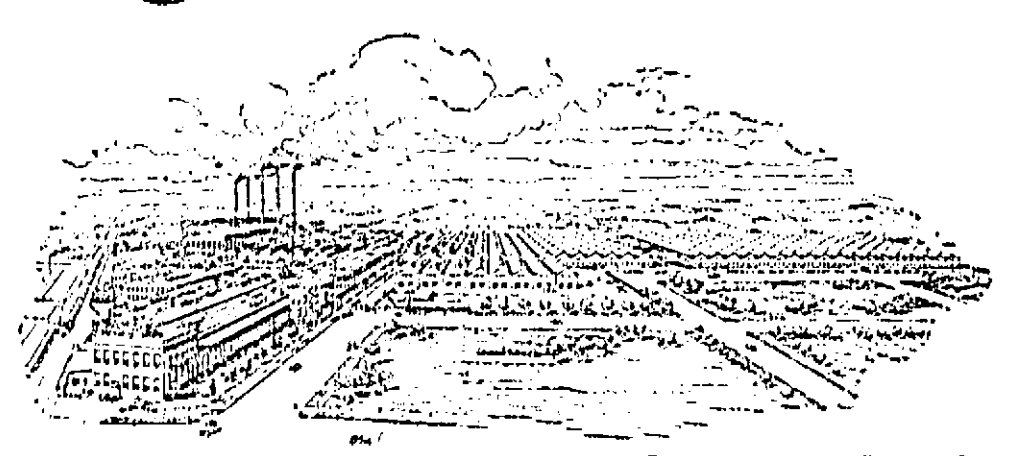

Investigate this proposition if you are in the market for good land at a low price. Write me for literature or call at my office.

John Hays Hammond.

So the President will dispatch his favorite playmate to London Town to sit in the chair left of Westminster Abbey and help see to it that the fifth royal George gets his crown on straight. And just to show the chosen of the world, then assembled in the British capital, that Whitelaw Reid, and his Dorchester House, has not a monopoly on American hospitality, the Taft playmate will pay $10,000 a week, in hire, for the best furnished house that good old London can afford. Ten thousand a week, for six weeks! Legend, sons and daughters, how that bloomin' British landlord must have cheered Sir Edward Grey's speech, the other day, advocating perpetual peace with America! For as special ambassador to the fifth Georgian crowning John Hays Hammond will spend in those six weeks a third again as much as steady regular Ambassador Reid shells out for his vaunted Dorchester House in a year.

Big figures have become a habit with Hammond Africanus, the man who opened up King Solomon's mines with in thirty miles of their location by the imagination of Eldar Haggard. We did not read his name in five years without the suffix "highest salaried man in the world" and a cold quarter million was said to be his annual retainer as chief consulting engineer from the Barons Guggenheim. Such was the price attached to Hammond Africanus by the most conservative of those scribes who know by heart the pay roll of every great employer of the land. He it is that may, the president's playmate can well afford this paltry fifty thousand, for he owns a string of mines in North and South America, to say nothing of others in the great African leg of mutton and not to mention, either, the "biggest irrigation project on earth"—that down in the section of our hemisphere that is now threatened with de-Diazification.

As special Ambassador to the coronation Mr. Hammond will have the "pan" of Everyday Ambassador Reid, which means that he will take precedence of Horace Greeley's protegee and successor. He will be treated with all of the honors due to a royal guest—will be attended, throughout his London visit, by some of the King's lords and gentlemen-in-waiting; will have at his disposal also carriages and servants from the King's stable. But on the day of the coronation ceremonies he must be content, it seems, to be only a black blot upon a dazzling picture of glistening gold and sparkling gems, all because a democratic home government will probably limit him to the habit noir—that same sombre style of American "full dress suit" which Special Ambassador Roosevelt wore, in daylight, at the late King's funeral.

What a pity for 'Is Hexellency 'Ays 'Ammond that he cannot revive the uniform which our representative, Andrew Stevenson, of Virginia, wore at the Coronation of Queen Victoria, and which included, we are told, "a three-cornered hat, adorned with a golden eagle, and a sword in a white scabbard."

But, all badinage and persiflage aside, John Hays Hammond would, down in his heart of hearts, much prefer the simple habit noir, even if the choice of such matters were left to him.

At the Court of Fifth George he will personify the land which sent him, for he is fearless, adventurous, aggressive, virile and rich. And there you have America. His chum Taft was minus two years old when he was born out yonder in San Francisco, whether his father had followed the trail as a forty-niner, after having fought as a major in the Mexican War.

Father Hammond was a West Pointer and had gotten enough of the yellow stuff together to send that restless mortal, Jack, to Yale, where he was too far advanced to haze "Big Bill" Taft, when the latter entered as a "fresh." For Jack Hammond was by then a dignified junior, holding his nose above the "rough house" of the underclassmen. And after two years these college mates were far separated, for Papa Hammond bundled his boy off to the Royal School of Mines, in Saxony, where he learned the real secrets of Earth's hard heart.

Then, back to the golden west came Jack, to take the governor over the coals for getting worried in a venture—for fooling with pocket mining without consulting him.

The old gentleman had sunk his all in this earthen pocket, and the boy started in to retrieve the family fortunes. He opened an assay office, sweeping his own floor and making his own fire. Next he enlisted in the national Geological Survey and familiarized himself with the gold fields of the west. Then he hiked off for Mexico, fought ore thieves and revolutionists and after a year and a half came home $50 to the good. After a term with an iron works, he believed the old gentleman was right, after all, about railroads, and he joined the Engineer Corps of the Central and Southern Pacific.

But Hays Hammond is a human divining-rod and he felt a psychic thrill whenever he trod the earthy crust that hid precious metal. With some capitalists he bought the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, in Idaho, which became the world's greatest silver and lead producer.

The Human Divining Rod.

In '93 it fell about that Barney Barnato, now one of the richest diamond miners of the world, was to write to our John and ask him over to London. Our John goes, Barney offers him $20,000 a year.

"You'll have to double it," says John and Barney stands for the raise. He also suggests a three-year contract, but Hammond will sign for only six months.

"I may not like you after I learn what sort of a man you are," says the American. And that's John Hays all rolled up into fourteen words.

So he piles off Transvaalward, and makes many extra millions for Barney and shows that now slotful magnate where to locate new mines. But Barney lets the chance go by and Hammond, becoming disgusted, resigns at the end of the first six months, after which a rival syndicate buying the indicated property makes $50,000,000 out of it.

The great Cecil Rhodes, Premier of Cape Colony, who owned mines near Barney's, now sent for the American mining engineer and offered him $60,000 a year—as much as John Hays now spends for a London mansion in six weeks—also a percentage of the profits. Hammond took the job, found Rhodes' mines too shallow, showed him vast tracts where the ore was deep and advised him to sell, which Rhodes did, straightway buying the new properties, now yielding seventy-five million a year.

Hammond settled in Johannesburg and his rule over the new mines was absolute. But Oom Paul Kruger at once got on the Yankee's nerves, for the latter was convinced that the Boer president was a grafter and the bane of the country. So he helped organize a "Reform Committee" and after swarming all of the members to maintain allegiance to the Republic demanded of Kruger a fair constitution.

But now comes Dr. Jameson into the Transvaal on his famous raid and Hammond, not in sympathy with the Scotchman's radical plans, wires him to halt at the frontier and await his orders. But Jameson is captured, Hammond and his reformers are arrested for high treason and with his brother leaders is sentenced to be hanged.

He hears the gallows go up and the night before the date set for his hanging is busy in his filthy cell making final disposition of his earthly affairs, while his wife weeps without. But the hanging does not come off on schedule time and after a long period of suspense now comes that Kruger has commuted the sentence to a fine of $125,000, which each reformer pays.

But Hammond has since been even nearer to tragic death than that. After leaving the Transvaal he went into Mexico, where a drunken bully of a peon commanded him to fetch a fiddle for him. Hammond of course refused.

Then the bully leveled a revolver at the American's head and gave him a minute to obey.

"He hasn't the nerve to shoot," Hammond assures his terror-stricken wife, who stands by. And at the same time the mining engineer holds the peon powerless with the stare of two steel gray eyes.

The hypnotic spell works and John Hays leaps forward to disarm his would-be murderer.

So much for the man whom our third William sends to the crowning of Britain's fifth George. Is he not America, all condensed into one man?

BEST FISHERMAN IN CONGRESS.

THE greatest fisherman in Congress is Senator Frye, of Maine, who has served in that body over 30 years. Once at a dinner he boasted of having caught a seven pound trout and no less an authority than Prof. Agassiz, challenging the statement across the table, declared that no trout over attained such a size. But not long afterward the Senator came back by whispering to the Professor an eight pounder of the disputed species, taken with a fly. And Agassiz sent this note of surrender: "The theory of a lifetime kicked to death by a fact!"

THE Swedish King's brother, Prince Eugene, one of the foremost painters of Europe, has come to admire the work of David Erdstrom, an artist of Ottumwa, Iowa, to the extent of persuading this American to expatriate himself, Waldorf Astorwise, and become a Swedish citizen. "We will buy your works of art and keep them in this country. Then Americans will come and look at them," said the Prince to the Iowan, who took the royal advice.
